

CALL FOR PAPERS - CCLR ISSUE 4/2020

✉ Submit your articles to mckernan@lexxion.eu

DEADLINE

- Full papers due 31 October 2020

CARBON & CLIMATE LAW REVIEW (CCLR)

For our upcoming CCLR issue we invite original articles on the following topics:

- Subnational, national and regional climate laws and policies
- Climate change litigation & rights-based approaches
- UNFCCC negotiations
- Mitigation, adaptation, loss and damage
- Market-based approaches (e.g. Emissions trading, etc.)
- Carbon Dioxide Capture & Storage (CCS)
- Climate engineering governance
- Deforestation & Forest Degradation (REDD)
- Synergies between climate and biodiversity & other environmental regimes

We are strongly interested in contributions for our segment Practitioner's Perspective (1000-3000 words), where we invite climate law practitioners i.e. judges, counsel, in-house lawyers, public interest lawyers, negotiators and others to shed light on a recent exciting legal development they are involved in in the field of climate law.

As a new feature, we now invite opinion pieces from climate law practitioners involved in exciting new legal developments in our Practitioner's Perspective!

To guarantee CCLR's high-quality standards, all submissions are subject to peer review required to conform to the author guidelines available at:
www.lexxion.eu/en/journals/cclr/#authors

Editor-In-Chief

Michael Mehling
Massachusetts Institute of Technology

Managing Editor

Patrick Toussaint
IASS Potsdam

Indexed in

CNKI Scholar
CNPIEC
Ebsco
Hein Online
jstore
Lexis Nexis
Primo Central
ProQuest
Scopus
Strada Lex

OPEN ACCESS OPTION

Make your CCLR contribution available freely online and retain your right to republish insert space. The open access fee is €820 (excl. VAT.) Peer review process still applies.

20 YEARS
lexxion
: